VESEVO

Vesevo is located in Campania region, in Southern Italy, a region of ancient wine – making traditions, which in recent times has been able to create wines of the highest level both from white and red grapes.

Being of volcanic origin, the soil where our vines grow is very rich in minerals, potassium, iron, phosphorus and silica. The Vesuvius area is one of the richest in minerals on our planet. These characteristics give our wines a unique mineral quality. It is precisely because of this unique terroir that viticulture has developed with such importance in this area.

Our greatest desire is to express the magic of this land in every single drop of wine. To do so we chose a team of expert winemakers with a wide experience collected all around the world.

Under the supervision of our winemakers, all the operations in our vineyard are carried out manually. We favour the biological management and avoid forcing operations such as irrigation and fertilization.

Bunch by bunch, all our grapes are harvested by hand and brought intact and healthy to the cellar, where our expert winemakers scrupulously follow their vinification and ageing, before giving them a long, exciting life in the bottle.
